

BOW ISLAND REVIEW.

VOL. 3. NO 46

BOW ISLAND, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, NOV. 15, 1912

SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 A YEAR

Money to Loan

If you are desirous of getting a loan see us before you arrange. We can save you from $10.00 to $15.00 in putting loan through. Liberal advances made.

We have some bargains in farm lands.

E. C. Luttko Land Company.

(E. C. LUTTKO - J.P., N.P., Commissioner for Oaths.)

Xmas Cards. New Year Cards

We have the finest selection of private Christmas and New Year greeting cards ever shown in town, and the prices on many of them are below those charged for the ordinary cards.

Call and see them. You're sure to like them.

Review Office, Bow Island.

LIVERY, FEED AND SALE STABLES, LIGHT & HEAVY DRAYING.

Money to Loan on Improved Farm Lands

Come in and get our rates.

BEATTIE & BRATTON, Bow Island

RURAL MUNICIPALITIES Farmers must hustle, or Many will have cold feet!

But the people of Bow Island and district will not catch the disease for we have the sure preventive in our new line of foot-warmers. The price of them will make them

SURE WINNERS EVERY TIME.

We have a complete line of sleighs and cutters. Prices low, style and quality high.

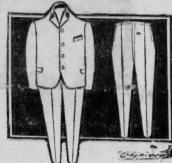

A. SWENNUMSON, Bow Island, Alta.

The Solving of the Question Which Store is Best.

The question of the BEST has never been long in doubt, for people who have once been scorched by "hot-air" advertisements and then soaked by shoddy goods, the only thing cheap of which is the quality, return and stay with the only store which gives you Goods of Quality, all made by firms of reputation, at prices which are always the same. THAT STORE IS THE BOW ISLAND TRADING COMPANY.

An Extra pair of trousers will make your suit wear twice as long. They will give you a change, too, that is as good as another suit. We are particular about the trousers we sell. They are made handsomely and will fit well. They have all the qualities of the made-to-order kind, except the price, which is only about half what you would pay a tailor.

There's no better line of clothing than Campbell's.

New shipment of winter clothing just arrived. Complete line and priced exceedingly moderate.

MEN'S SOCKS—are sometimes a heap of trouble to the wearers. There are so many seconds and loose colors on the market that nearly every man has run across them.

We don't sell socks that are apt to lose us a customer for our other men's furnishings. We prefer to sell perfect goods at poor sock prices rather than lose your trade. So don't ever worry about your socks. Get 'em here and get 'em right.

THE BOW ISLAND TRADING COMPANY.

Town Council.

A meeting of the above was held in the Council Chambers on Thursday evening last, Mayor Dohmeyer in the chair. There were also present: Commissioner, Robertson, Hurst and Cottam.

The following accounts were read: T. W. Dyer, coal, $7.70; Beattie & Bratton, hauling cinders, $5.50; R. MacAllum, killing dogs, $8.00; Pioneer Laundry Co., $2.70; C. H. Bell, hauling shingles, $6.00; Proulx & Lyons, $2.00; Karl Klenckens, ten sold to Board of Health, $6.00.

This last account was ordered to be paid to the Board of Health.

Mr. MacAlum notified the Council that the goat was not in a condition to put prisoners in during the winter and would require to be made much warmer.

The public works committee was instructed to look into it.

The public works committee was also instructed to start work on the re-crevicing ground.

The meeting then adjourned.

Board of Trade.

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the L.O.O.P. hall on Monday evening last, President E. C. Luttko presiding.

There was an attendance of about twenty members. An invitation was received from the Citizens' Band inviting the members of the Board to a meeting that would be held on the Tuesday evening for reorganization purposes.

It was decided to accept the invitation and urge all members of the Board to attend.

A letter was received from a Mr. Parsons of Spokane in which he writes to request us to know whether Bow Island was desirous of installing an electric lighting plant.

It was decided to inform Mr. Paulson through the Secretary that Bow Island hoped to be putting in shortly the natural gas.

The Associate Boards of Southern Alberta were desirous to know whether Bow Island would affiliate this year, as last.

Several of those present strongly advocated continuing their work of cooperation with the other Boards of Southern Alberta, and eventually the Secretary was instructed to communicate with the Associate Boards to that effect.

The meeting then adjourned until Monday night at eight o'clock.

General Meeting of Citizens' band.

A meeting composed of members of the Citizens' Band and others was held in the L.O.O.P. hall on Tuesday evening for the purpose of discussing matters in connection with the future career of the organization.

The Master of Ceremonies (A. F. Dohmeyer) occupied the chair, supported by P. E. Luttko (Secretary).

The President announced that the most important business to be transacted was an expression of opinion from the citizens relative to several very important matters, which, he thought, could be explained more fully by the leader, B. L. Jamieson.

Mr. Jamieson had been called for some time by the members of the band, so that, if possible, an effort should be made to call a larger amount of sympathy with a more practical discussion on behalf of the band, and with this object in view, the members of the band had decided to completely re-organize, and have everything run in future upon a thorough business basis.

The band has a President, a musical director, manager, and a Secretary-Treasurer.

Several of the members in the audience also spoke, notably Rev. Mr. Wright, in the course of his remarks, suggesting that a finance committee be also included with those to be elected.

This latter suggestion was acted upon, and the election of officers resulted as follows:

President, E. C. Luttko, by acclamation.

Secretary-Treasurer, Bert Armstrong, leader, B. L. Jamieson.

Finance Committee, P. E. Luttko, P. W. Dyer, J. J. Smith.

Before and after the meeting, the band gave several selections of music, each item being exceptionally well received.

CHRISTMAS REALLY IS COMING
Have you seen our Greeting Cards?

The International Supply Co. has completed the drilling of well No. 7 for the Southern Alberta Land Co., north of Bow Island, in their irrigation belt. It is down over 2,100 feet and has a flow of fourteen million feet. Another well is to be drilled at Southwell.

Grain Market.

PRICES ON TRACK, NOV. 15.
Bow Island.
No. 1, Northern..... .04
No. 2, Northern..... .01
P. W. No. 1 Northern..... .08
Bailey, N. S. 3 Malting..... .28
Oats..... .29

Does your Lamp Chimney Smoke?

If so you are using an inferior coal oil. For the same reason you do not get a good light. The Golden Light Oil, is absolutely the best obtainable, and is guaranteed to be pure and will give a bright clear light, without throwing off any soot or smoke.

BARGAIN IN HAND-MADE BOILERS

A limited number only of the strongest boilers in town.

REGULAR $2.25. OUR PRICE, $1.50.
A visit to our store will be to your advantage.

WILLMOT BROS., BOW ISLAND.

THE FACE AT THE WINDOW

A Story For Halloween

By JOEL WASHBURN

Tom Biggs, tramp, was the son of respectable parents. As a boy he was bold, neither study nor work did he care for. He was a raving disposition. When he came to manhood and his father told him to go and earn a living, he made no pretense of seeing the words he heard.

One night Tom stopped at a house and asked for food. It was given him and he was sent away. He found no place to sleep except under the open heavens, and the night being bright he lay down on the grass at which he had got his supper, but he was soon disturbed herself altogether too old for such superstitions. Indeed she had given birth to many more real, though not a normal, children than ever since its occurrence.

It happened at the time of her death. Late in the afternoon a telegram had come announcing that she could not live till morning. Mabel Hinckley and her husband had been to the station to see what could be done for a lodger in the carriage house and pulling some cumbrous out of the vehicle he found there he spread out on the floor and went to sleep.

Tom slept in the freezing cold, he was awoke chilled through. Never had the fact that tramping did not may taken possession of him so forcibly. He for a good bed or, better still, a place to sleep he had been compelled to sit in an easy chair, toss his skins and drop off to sleep again throughout the night. Through a window down the carriage house he saw a bright coal fire blazing in one of the lower rooms of the house.

"I'll go up there," he said, "go into the room and enjoy that fire. Going out he went to a window of the room in which it was burning, and standing on tiptoe he peeped in. The fire was burning in the room, and he was tempted to try to effect an entrance and pass a short time by the fire.

Putting his hand to the window glass he discovered that it had been left unlocked. He risked it, climbing in by the window, stepped on the floor and shut the sash after him. An easy chair stood near and he rolled it to the fire place so as not to make a noise.

The chair was warm, the warmth he revelled in the warmth. But he did not dare go to sleep, for if found there the police would know he was here and have over to the police. So he sat thinking how much more comfortable it was after all to have a roof over one's head than to tramp.

An illustrated calendar stood on the mantel before him, and in one of the scenes he noticed the window pane. Then he thought that he was sitting there on the anniversary that young girls look for a sight of the men they love to marry.

Marry? What had he to do with that word? He was a rolling stone, gather no moss. What would that girl say if of marrying him, at least when he had been brought up? The thought was far from pleasant.

Finding himself getting drowsy, he arose from his chair, and it occurred to him to go to explore. The first thing of any value he carried was an electric lamp that he had bought from a small boy for a dime. He found it very difficult to get along without him, he had no business, hating for some place to sleep on which to sleep.

Opening a door he crept into the closet, and then into the laundry. Closing the door behind him, he pressed the button on his lamp and, treading lightly, went about the house. He did not expect to find any one, for he thought the occupants of the house were all in bed on the upper floor.

After a while he explored this floor he was tempted to mount the stairs. He did so stealthily in the dark, feeling his way with his hands, and as he listened to hear persons breathing or perhaps snoring. Everything was still as a church at midnight, but he saw that the door of his room, he saw that a bedroom into which he was looking was empty. Passing along the stairs he listened to the voices and found them all open, raked a flint of his lamp and found them empty.

Tom was then struck. Either the house was empty, or he had been making a fool of himself. The last thing of any value he carried was an electric lamp that he had bought from a small boy for a dime. He found it very difficult to get along without him, he had no business, hating for some place to sleep on which to sleep.

He crept into the laundry. Closing the door behind him, he pressed the button on his lamp and, treading lightly, went about the house. He did not expect to find any one, for he thought the occupants of the house were all in bed on the upper floor.

If it had not been Halloween and if the face at the window had been a regular Miss Mabel Hinckley, he would have been afraid. As it was he stood perfectly still. The eyes of the strange girl darting here and there, fixed on the room, he saw that there was a bedroom into which he was looking was empty; that a girl of his age was in the mirror, and that she was more comely. And why not? Surely it was Halloween, and what girl on that eve would doubt that she was looking upon her future husband?

There was no one in the room, so the girl who was looking upon him, he saw that she was a frank, ingenuous face, and the smile it wore was very winsome. He stepped forward, advanced to the window, threw up the sash and extended a hand to admit the visitor. When he stood in the room before her he bent over her.

"I am—
She lowered her eyes to the floor.
"The man who three years ago, failing that the world was intended to be seen rather than for a workshop, made a model of myself. I came in and you took me in, and when I made it a great change in me. I promised myself that I would go to work and make the money to buy this house and the home and the girl his bride. Then a resolution came to me."

"I am a tramp—I can't be exclaimed, ringing true, with a spasm of energy entirely new to him. Going to a dead end, he turned back, and then he wrote a note stating the occupancy of the house ending with the words, "Some day I'll going to buy this house and marry the girl whose portrait hangs on the wall in this room."

Tom then wrote out an I O U for a dollar to cover the cost of his entertainment payable "when I have time." He signed it, "Tom Biggs." Then not daring to go alone again lest he should be caught by some one belonging there, he went out into the night and tramped it in a neighboring town.

It was Halloween. The first chill of autumn was in the air, and, though in certain parts winter had come, most of the time it was still a raving disposition. When he came to manhood and his father told him to go and earn a living, he made no pretense of seeing the words he heard.

One night Tom stopped at a house and asked for food. It was given him and he was sent away. He found no place to sleep except under the open heavens, and the night being bright he lay down on the grass at which he had got his supper, but he was soon disturbed herself altogether too old for such superstitions. Indeed she had given birth to many more real, though not a normal, children than ever since its occurrence.

It happened at the time of her death. Late in the afternoon a telegram had come announcing that she could not live till morning. Mabel Hinckley and her husband had been to the station to see what could be done for a lodger in the carriage house and pulling some cumbrous out of the vehicle he found there he spread out on the floor and went to sleep.

Tom slept in the freezing cold, he was awoke chilled through. Never had the fact that tramping did not may taken possession of him so forcibly. He for a good bed or, better still, a place to sleep he had been compelled to sit in an easy chair, toss his skins and drop off to sleep again throughout the night.

"I'll go up there," he said, "go into the room and enjoy that fire. Going out he went to a window of the room in which it was burning, and standing on tiptoe he peeped in. The fire was burning in the room, and he was tempted to try to effect an entrance and pass a short time by the fire.

Putting his hand to the window glass he discovered that it had been left unlocked. He risked it, climbing in by the window, stepped on the floor and shut the sash after him. An easy chair stood near and he rolled it to the fire place so as not to make a noise.

The chair was warm, the warmth he revelled in the warmth. But he did not dare go to sleep, for if found there the police would know he was here and have over to the police. So he sat thinking how much more comfortable it was after all to have a roof over one's head than to tramp.

An illustrated calendar stood on the mantel before him, and in one of the scenes he noticed the window pane. Then he thought that he was sitting there on the anniversary that young girls look for a sight of the men they love to marry.

Marry? What had he to do with that word? He was a rolling stone, gather no moss. What would that girl say if of marrying him, at least when he had been brought up? The thought was far from pleasant.

Finding himself getting drowsy, he arose from his chair, and it occurred to him to go to explore. The first thing of any value he carried was an electric lamp that he had bought from a small boy for a dime. He found it very difficult to get along without him, he had no business, hating for some place to sleep on which to sleep.

Opening a door he crept into the closet, and then into the laundry. Closing the door behind him, he pressed the button on his lamp and, treading lightly, went about the house. He did not expect to find any one, for he thought the occupants of the house were all in bed on the upper floor.

If it had not been Halloween and if the face at the window had been a regular Miss Mabel Hinckley, he would have been afraid. As it was he stood perfectly still. The eyes of the strange girl darting here and there, fixed on the room, he saw that there was a bedroom into which he was looking was empty; that a girl of his age was in the mirror, and that she was more comely. And why not? Surely it was Halloween, and what girl on that eve would doubt that she was looking upon her future husband?

There was no one in the room, so the girl who was looking upon him, he saw that she was a frank, ingenuous face, and the smile it wore was very winsome. He stepped forward, advanced to the window, threw up the sash and extended a hand to admit the visitor. When he stood in the room before her he bent over her.

"I am—
She lowered her eyes to the floor.
"The man who three years ago, failing that the world was intended to be seen rather than for a workshop, made a model of myself. I came in and you took me in, and when I made it a great change in me. I promised myself that I would go to work and make the money to buy this house and the home and the girl his bride. Then a resolution came to me."

"I am a tramp—I can't be exclaimed, ringing true, with a spasm of energy entirely new to him. Going to a dead end, he turned back, and then he wrote a note stating the occupancy of the house ending with the words, "Some day I'll

HOLY VIOLATING PROPERTY.

It was the cat's fault, dear my self! It was cold, I am in heat. The stall where I was makin' at the time of the accident, she rubbed agin me my said, "M'your?" I was makin' of the cow.

She knew that I could squit her jaws when I was makin' at the time of the accident, An so I did, just to be kind.

Yes, maybe that cat wasn't pleased. Between the miles stood an my ice. At every minute ana' would be comin' to me to give me more squirt.

She rose up on the cow's head, when she was makin' at the time of the accident, An so I did, just to be kind.

That's the reason I'm so sore. The stable's got a fine, dainty, mouse. No, I can't to this, I'll be evil.

No brickbat never hit my tail. As bad as I did, when hit by a brickbat.

Then I'll Karpinski in the cow's drinkin' trough.

But she stays out cuttin' flowers.

—Almanac Journal.

Serious.

A New York medical man is a keen cricketer, or an unlucky one. Occasionaly he has to leave the local club, and return to a Saturday afternoon.

He had long nursed the hope that one day he would score a hundred runs, but he had never succeeded, and his ambition was never realized.

The story of how he was not failed to be distinctly amusing, especially to those who had seen the genius doctor himself.

His score was 99, and reached ninety-nine in his own words, but he was preparing to "knock the next delivery off the earth" when a little interruption came.

The son's sudden left the sorting box and raced across the tour toward the entrance.

"Doctor," Doctor" he gasped as he ran, "You're nearly done! It's only run wanted, and—"

He was evidently not of sound mind, and was sent to a hospital.

The son's mother was waiting outside.

"I don't know," returned the housekeeper, "but I know it's a bad idea to let a doctor go home."

"But, doctor, it's very serious," persisted the youngster. "Only one run wanted, and he's got excited and swallowed his pencil!"

It is to be wondered at that the doctor failed after that—New York American.

A Common Failure.

People always seem to be failing to getting how many more achievements they can work out than talk out—New York Press.

Studying Astronomy.

A Common Failure.

People always seem to be failing to getting how many more achievements they can work out than talk out—New York Press.

—Almanac Journal.

Mine Dupont gives a demonstration of the eclipse of the sun.—Pete Melo.

—Almanac Journal.

Know His Part.

Vicar to Mrs. Thatchington (whose baby was recently christened)—Ah! Mrs. Thatchington never reads any paper, but she does like to sit by the window.

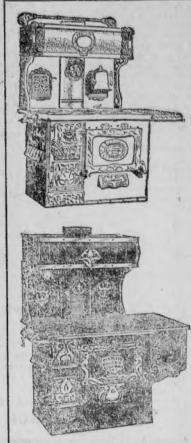

Mrs. Thatchington—Lor, sir, that was because my Jim 'd been practicin' on 'im for a week now.

—Almanac Journal.

He was a perfect model.

The Question of the Hour--What shall I Buy for Christmas Presents?

Let us Help you to Answer it.

We have the Finest Selection of Fancy Goods, suitable for Christmas Presents, ever seen in Bow Island. Space does not permit of us detailing them, but it is safe to say that you will find everything you have thought of, and many other things as well which you have overlooked. The Prices' are--well you won't find cheaper at Winnipeg--The quality is our usual, the BEST. Don't let this chance, of securing your presents at low price go by without, at least, inspecting them.

A RED HOT OPPORTUNITY TO SECURE A FIRST-RATE HEATER AT THE PRICE OF JUNK
A Large Variety, ranging from $10 to $40.

Columbia and other well-known Ranges.

We have just received a Fresh Shipment of HARVEST QUEEN FLOUR and FIVE ROSE FLOUR. It is acknowledged by everyone that there are no better Flours on the market than these two brands, and having purchased a large quantities we are able to offer it at Special Low Prices for large quantities.

The Bow Island Mercantile Co., J. W. Hurd, Proprietor.

Local and General.

Birth—On Friday, October 25th, at Irvinghoe Villas, Motttingham, Kent, England, Mrs. W. P. Cotton of a daughter.

Dr. Agnew will be at the Myrtle Hotel on the Third Monday of each month.

See Duijnage for Farm Loans.

Polinikas, brothers, living four miles south-west of Whiteman's, are having an auction sale on November 22nd.

Hail and Fire Insurance, Farm Loans.—A. Ellsworth.

Father F. X. Erny will say mass in the new church, twelve miles south of Bow Island, on Sunday, November 24th.

J. R. Agar of Winnifred was removed to the hospital at Medicine Hat this morning suffering from appendicitis.

Duijnage handles Fire Insurance.

Mr. G. W. Shoemaker, of Lucky Strike, Alta., spent over Sunday here with his sister Mrs. S. D. McCrea.

Mr. Winchcombe of Winnifred, who has been confined to his bed with heart trouble, has recovered sufficiently to walk around again.

D. M. Garrison has three auction sales advertised just now. One is at W. Ostreich's, on November 19th, P. Kilgord's, on the 21st, and Polinikas Bros. on the 22nd.

Be sure and see Rygg the tailor before you order your fall suit or overcoat. He guarantees, Fit Style, Workmanship, Swellst line of samples to pick from. Be sure and call and see him.

Every member of Golden Link (Rebekah) Lodge is urgently requested to attend the session this evening. The nomination of officers for the ensuing six months will be proceeded with along with other important business.

Willmet Bros. have been fortunate enough to secure the services of G. R. Howden in their tinsmith and plumbing department. That this new department is appreciated is amply shown by the large number of orders that are sent in.

Quite a large contingent of local members of the L.O.O.P. journeyed to Winnifred last evening to pay a fraternal visit to the members there. The evening proved a most enjoyable one and was very instructive to the visiting brethren, all of whom expressed the greatest pleasure at the cordial reception tendered them.

By a vote of 158 to 2, the people of Medicine Hat on Monday, endorsed agreements with the Maple Leaf Milling Co., the Manitoba and Ontario Milling Co., and the Watskwain Bedding Company, for the location of these industries. An agreement was also signed up by the city council with George Sillman, of Spokane, for the establishment of a plumb manufacturing galvanized steel grain bins and wagon boxes.

We received this week catalogue from an outside firm of jewellers advertising their Christmas goods. It seems to us that there is hardly an article in it but what cannot be purchased just as cheaply from our jeweller here in town. It would certainly pay intending purchasers of any rate, to look over local stocks previous to buying outside. And what applies to jewellers, applies also to any other business. Catalogues by the thousands are being sent into this district, and yet if our residents would only take the trouble to inspect the goods carried by our local merchants, in nine cases out of ten they would get greater satisfaction by purchasing in their home town, and surely it means something, some benefit to all, to have the money stay in the town.

The Review has a very choice assortment of Christmas Cards ranging in price from $1.00 upwards for a dozen. This price includes the printing of your name upon the cards, also envelope to match. These sell well and are sure to sell well to pay ordinarily for the used article, and provides a very suitable reminder to one's friends at the festive season. Orders for these should be given in right away, as Christmas delivery cannot be guaranteed after November 20. Samples may be seen at the Review office.

Bow Island Rural Municipality.

Nomination Day, Dec. 2nd.

A meeting will be held in the L.O.O.P. Hall on Monday, December 2nd for the purpose of nominating candidates for the newly-organised Rural Municipality of Bow Island No. 9.

The persons eligible for election as councillors shall be the male residents of the municipality who are of the full age of twenty years, and who have resided in the said subjects as have not resided long enough in Canada to comply with the conditions of qualification of residence to be naturalized, but who have made a statutory declaration of their intention to become naturalized subjects. Provided that if any person making such declaration neglects or refuses to become naturalized as a British subject within one month after expiration of the time of residence in Canada required as a qualification for naturalization, his seat in the council shall forthwith become vacant.

The persons entitled to vote for candidates shall be the registered voters of the Municipality, subject to the provisions of section 339 of the Rural Municipalities Act in regard to persons jointly owning or occupying land.

As this is the first election of the Bow Island Rural Municipality, every resident should give the matter his particular attention and see that his district is adequately represented.

Hockey.

At a large meeting of the younger boys of the town, held recently in the "Dance Hall," next to the Banking Co. store, on November the 19th, it was decided to organize the Ponies Hockey Club.

The following officers were elected for the season: President, W. H. Bickel; President, E. C. Ladits; Vice-president, W. K. Bateman; Secretary, W. F. Henderson.

By the looks of things, so far, Bow Island will have something to bring to the front in the way of sports. The election shall be the persons, males or females, of the full age of 21 years, whose names appear upon the last revised voters' lists of the town.

It is to be hoped that our Borden friends will take note of this and see if they can make it as interesting for us as they did when the baseball season was on.

SNAP!
Improved —section, 6 miles from Winnifred.

Very good land, 50 acres broke, can be broken, fair, good soil, 100 ft. from House, Barn and other buildings; all fenced and cross-fenced; Good Water and fine timber.

$15.00 per acre.

For further particulars write or call on G. J. HANSCH, WINNIFRED, ALTA.

WILL EXCHANGE.
Wanted to exchange two lots in Bow Island for one in W. H. Hurd.

Apply Miss E. Boles, Windy Ridge P.O., Alta.

Dissolution of Partnership.

We the undersigned hereby give notice that the partnership hitherto existing between us was dissolved on the 1st day of November, 1912. All outstanding accounts will be paid to T. W. Hinds, who will also be liable for liabilities contracted during the partnership.

(Signed) T. W. HINDS,
G. W. CARLSON.

FOR SALE.
Two Houses, five years old, weight 100 lbs. each, with kitchen, dining room, two sets of harness, etc. Apply, W. G. Vannoy, P.O. Box 60, Bow Island, Alta.

FOR SALE.

Half-section of land for sale, two miles from Bow Island, 200 acres broken. House 18 x 24, and other buildings. For terms, etc., apply Thomson Brothers, Bow Island, Alta.

FOR SALE.

Two second-hand wagons and buggy for sale. Apply Bow Island Blacksmithing Co., Bow Island.

One 50c. ad.—Over 50 Replies.

Say! Is it a Good Proposition? Try one when you want to sell.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may apply for a homestead of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

Applications for land may be made to the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by paying money or giving security on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister is intended.

Duties.—Six months residence and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live on a farm of at least 80 acres solely for three years, provided he is the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In each district a homesteader may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price Duties. Must reside upon the homestead or presumption six months in each of three years. A homesteader may pre-empt entry (including time required to earn out a homestead patent) and cultivate five acres.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead and right and undivided interest in property retained for a purchased homestead in certain districts. A homesteader may reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $800.00.

W. W. CORV.

A. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

P.O. Box 34, Phone 22 QUONG SANG RESTAURANT

Meals at all Hours.

A ROOM TO RENT.

Definite Conditions, Cigars and Tobacco, GOOD BREAD, 10c, a Loaf, 3 for 25c.

Good Laundry in connection.

CHARLEY YIP YEN, Proprietor.

Horses for Sale.

A. Bergeron recommends that he is prepared to buy or sell any number of horses. Intending purchasers or dealers wishing to dispose of their stock address A. J. Bergeron, Bow Island.

If you have anything to sell try an advt. in the "Review."